THE TALK OF THE CAMPUS

Considering Sites

SITES for two new college buildings are now under consideration following authorization in October for immediate action on the $350,000 construction program by the Board of Trustees. Included in the program will be a Memorial Physical Education building and a separate Dining Hall — Social Center building.

In order to plan for both buildings, the Board instructed its building committee to consult with two advisory committees from the faculty. In addition, a committee from the student body was selected to serve with the Trustee and faculty committees. Meetings have been held at intervals throughout the past months.

Members of the building committee of the Board of Trustees are Donovan R. Beachley, William R. Flory, Samuel M. Hess, Joseph V. Kline and Chalender H. Leshner. Working with them are the following committees from the faculty:

Memorial Physical Education building committee — Dr. Edgar S. Kiracofe, Jack E. Oller, William R. Smaltz, P. M. Snider and Prof. J. Clyde Stayer. Dining Hall and Social Center committee — Dr. Harold C. Binkley, Miss Frances J. Mathias, Dean J. Melvin Rhodes, Dr. Donald M. Rockwell and Dean Edith L. Spencer.

Show Must Go On

Here's one to add to the endless list of incidents which have prompted the hackneyed expression: "The show must go on!"

A coed, injured in the collapse of wooden bleachers while a spectator at the Juniata-Ursinus football game, answered the curtain call for "Pygmalion" on November 14 and 15 — with the aid of a cane.

Dorothy E. Belz, a senior from Haddon Heights, N.J., suffered a knee injury when the stands crashed in the second quarter of the Homecoming Day game November 8. After her release from the college infirmary, Miss Belz "carried on" with rehearsals for her role of Mrs. Higgins in the Masque's presentation of Bernard Shaw's classic play.

cial "go ahead" signal in October, Juniata's Trustees had been reluctant to advocate immediate construction of the buildings because of apprehension over obtaining inferior structures at inflated price levels. But the need for both buildings has proved to be urgent.

Efforts to provide a wide range of physical education courses and activities for both men and women have been seriously handicapped by the lack of facilities.

The present gymnasium is totally inadequate for a student body of 660. It has been necessary for a number of years to play all varsity basketball games in the high school gymnasium.

Hence, it was proposed that one of the first steps to be taken in expanding Juniata's facilities would be to erect a new building for physical education. This building will be a memorial to the college's sons and daughters who served in World War II.

Equally as urgent on the building list is the combined Dining Hall and Social Center. Originally it was planned to renovate Brumbaugh and Oneida Halls and enlarge the present Dining Hall. Now, however, an entirely separate building will be erected.

No dates can be set for construction work but plans are being worked out this winter with the hope of starting the buildings in the spring.

Around the Campus

PLANs for reviving Juniata's series of radio programs over Huntingdon's radio station WHUN were formulated by a student committee and the first program in the 1947-1948 series was presented on Thanksgiving Day. Students have undertaken the entire production of programs and have organized a Radio Workshop.

The fall meeting of the Pennsylvania Conference of College

Physics Teachers was held on the campus October 24-25 with leading men in physics from throughout the State attending the sessions. Highlight of the conference was an address by Dr. Saul Dushman, associate director of the research laboratory of the General Electric Company. Among other speakers were Dr. James H. Case, Jr., president of Washington and Jefferson College, and Prof. H. L. Yeagley of the Pennsylvania State College, who had received nationwide attention on his subject, "Pigeon Navigation."

* * *

"Pygmalion," an excellent stage story by Bernard Shaw, was the fall production of the Masque and was acclaimed by reviewers as "a credit to any organization." It was directed by Miss Esther M. Doyle and lead roles were played by Margaret Roop, Downingtown, Pa., and William Fegan, Palmyra, Pa.

* * *

Occupational round tables for members of the freshman class at the college have been conducted under the supervision of Dr. Earl W. Seibert, assistant professor of psychology. Other faculty members in the particular field of discussion assist Professor Seibert.

* * *

The fifty-seventh annual meeting of the Pennsylvania German Society was held on the campus October 11. Highlighting the meeting was an address by Joseph W. Yoder of Huntingdon, an authority on the life of the Amish community and Amish hymns. An outstanding collection of colonial papers and rare imprints, given to the college by the late Governor M. G. Brumbaugh, was on display in the College Library.

* * *

More than 400 proud mothers and dads were guests of the College for the annual Parents Day on October 4 and they witnessed Juniata's first football victory since 1942 — a 21-7 triumph over Westminster. The evening musical program in Oller Hall featured Earle Spicer, baritone concert singer from New York.

Timely discussions of the Marshall Plan and of the United Nations have been the featured topic of round table programs presented by representatives of the International Relations Club, an active student organization. Members of the club have appeared before service clubs and on the radio throughout the area.

Fall Homecoming

A FULL one-day program was held for alumni and former students to observe the annual Fall Homecoming on College Hill November 8. It was a gay day sparked by a decisive 31-14 football victory over Ursinus.

One of the highlights of the activities was the presentation of the College's first Miss Homecoming between halves of the game. She was Betty Kiracofe, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Edgar S. Kiracofe, who ruled as "queen-for-the-day" for all festivities and was guest of honor at the J Club Frolic in the Gym Saturday night.

Selection of Miss Homecoming was made in an all-college election in one of the most spirited student campaigns ever conducted. The election was sponsored by The Juniatian, which has become a revitalized student paper this year.

Traditional contests between the freshmen and the sophomores opened the morning's activities. An alumni council meeting was held in the Library and the annual convention of the Women's Central League took place in the Faculty Club.

A buffet luncheon for alumni J Club members was held in the Faculty Club and another was served in the Dining Hall for the alumni council and women's league.

Ake Loan Fund

A MEMORIAL loan fund has been established at the College in memory of John Robert Ake, a former freshman student from Martinsburg, Pa., who died in Army service in Japan. It is the first loan fund in memory of a soldier to be instituted at Juniata College.

The fund, which will carry benefits of $500 each year for one or more deserving students, has been arranged by the soldier's father and his father's wife, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ake of Roaring Spring.

Twenty-two-year-old John Robert Ake died of pneumonia on November 17, 1945, in an American hospital in Tokyo. He was buried in the United States Armed Forces Cemetery at Yokohama. Called into service in April, 1943, during his freshman year at Juniata, Ake served with the signal corps in the South Pacific and saw active service in New Guinea and the Philippines. Later he went to Japan with the occupation forces. He was a radioman and held the rank of Technician Fifth Grade.

His father (AB '15) is a supervisor in the department of public instruction with headquarters in Harrisburg.

Williamson Bequest

JUNIATA College has received a bequest of $1000 provided in the will of the late Hon. Richard W. Williamson, prominent Huntingdon attorney and former State Senator. Designated as an "unrestricted gift," the bequest has been turned over to the college by Mr. Williamson's nephew, McKnight Williamson of Auburn, Ala.

The late Mr. Williamson attended Juniata College in 1887, but was graduated from the Pennsylvania State College in 1893. He began the study of law in the office of his father after graduation and he continued in this profession until his death at the age of 77 on February 21, 1947.

Major Improvements

MAJOR improvements including remodeling and reconditioning were realized in all buildings on the college campus during the summer and fall months at an estimated cost of more than $60,000.

In Science Hall, a renovation expenditure of about $20,000 for the chemistry department has provided Juniata with some of the finest equipped labs in the East. A completely new organic laboratory on the third floor and a reconditioned qualitative laboratory in the basement were included in the program. They will care for an additional 90-100 students.

This space in Science Hall was made available by moving the foods laboratory into the remodeled Home Economics building below the College Gymnasium. In addition to a newly equipped food lab, the college constructed a new sewing laboratory, three faculty offices and two utility rooms in the building. A new nursery was established in the white frame building east of Brumbaugh Hall formerly used for a sewing laboratory.

Another major expense has been for a new boiler and a revised heating line system for the Library, Science Hall and the Home Management house. Excavation for the new 10-inch pipeline began October 15 and work on the $17,000 project continued throughout the fall.

The 360-foot line runs from the remodeled College power plant diagonally across the campus to a connection point with the old line across Moore Street near the northeast corner of the Library. A new 200-horsepower boiler was installed in the heating plant.

At least $2500 was spent for major repairs to Founders tower stairway where a fireproof, composition material was used for new steps and the walls were replastered and painted.

Commend Author

IN a special resolution submitted on Homecoming Day, November 8, by J. Foster Gehrett, immediate past president of the Juniata Alumni Association, members of the Alumni Council commended Dr. C. C. Ellis for his "manifold contributions" to Juniata College.

It read: "Resolved that, upon the occasion of the publication of 'Juniata College — the History of Seventy Years,' the Alumni Association of the College publicly recognize the manifold contributions which its author, Dr. C. C. Ellis, has made to this school, our Alma Mater.

"Recognized as a leader in the field of higher education with a Christian emphasis, Dr. Ellis has been associated with Juniata as a student, professor and president. Over the years he has been an inspiring example for students and associates alike, known always as a wise counselor and an understanding friend.

"The publication of his book is a monument to the work to which his life has long been dedicated."

Brumbaugh House Opens

THE "I. Harvey Brumbaugh House," formerly the residence of Mrs. I. Harvey Brumbaugh, 407 17th Street, Huntingdon, was formally opened for college use during an "open house" ceremony at Fall Homecoming, November 8.

Two browsing rooms and a listening room have been established on the first floor of the house to handle the overflow of students from the College Library. Approximately 500-600 books were placed in the east and west front rooms by Miss Lillian M. Evans, librarian.

One of the prominent features in the house is the main desk in the reception lobby. It is an attractive and valued piece of furniture used by the late Dr. I. Harvey Brumbaugh.

The interior of the building was renovated and comfortable, new furniture has been installed. This furniture is the gift of Donovan R. Beachley of Hagerstown, Md., a member of the Board of Trustees.

Pigskin Patter

WHEN the Indians stopped the highly favored Lebanon Valley team on War Veterans Memorial Field in Huntingdon on November 22, 20-6, they recorded probably the most amazing upset in 25 seasons of gridiron play by Warriors of College Hill. In winning, the Smaltz-coached contingent put an end to a string of victory-less meetings with the Dutchmen in the 17-game series which dates back to 1920.

Now one game is very seldom considered enough to label a season good or bad. But Juniatians from far and wide probably will take exception to that rule in the case of the game with the Flying Dutchmen and proclaim the 1947 team "one of J.C.'s best."

Actually, Bill Smaltz hoped for a better season and was extremely disappointed that it could not have been at least five victories instead of three. "Maybe that will come next year," he says with a sly grin.

Those of you who followed the Indian team this year will know that the Men of Juniata were "in there battling" every game and were a threat until the final whistle in all except the Albright game. There the Roaring Lions of Albright scored before the Indians ever got their hands on the ball and they never fully recovered because even the weather was against them.

Against Alliance, Susquehanna and Alfred, the Redskins had the opposition worried all the way.

But no one will talk much about the 1947 season without talking a lot about the win over Andy Kerr's Lebanon Valley eleven. Kerr was high in his praise of the Indians that day and said: "There was no question as to the better team . . . Juniata had the best club and we were lucky to get out of the park with a two-touchdown defeat."

The snow-haired veteran mentor went on to explain that Juniata had the right mental attitude for the contest. He contends that 60 per cent of a football game is played from the neck up.

And adding even more glory to the Juniata victory was Kerr's statement revealing that it was the first time in his entire coaching career that he fielded a team as a pronounced favorite and lost.

Juniata's football strategy for the 1947 season was in the capable hands of Bill Smaltz, (left) one of Penn State's all-time passing greats, and Bob Bayer, an outstanding end for Princeton.

On The Court

AFTER the 1946 debacle in football and basketball no one was willing to offer predictions in either sport for 1947. Now that things have picked up in a football way, everyone is hoping that the Warriors will produce a better record on the basketball court this season.

The team already has swung into its season with a whirlwind pre-Christmas schedule of five games against some top-flight opposition which included the Quantico Marines.

Only one regular from last year's quintet, Bob Norris, was on deck for initial drills, but four other letter-winners who saw considerable action last year were pressing hard for starting assignments. These included a trio of Huntingdon county boys headed by John Stayer, son of Prof. J. Clyde Stayer; George Smith of football fame, and Jerry Rupert, six foot-three inch junior from Saltillo. Andy Christos of Ham-monton, N. J., was the fifth hold-over.

Mike Snider and his cagers faced a rough 21-game schedule which featured ten home and eleven away games. Remaining games on the schedule are:

By means of the Alumni Bulletin, the Juniatian, the Jay-Ce-O-Gram, and letters, they were kept informed about the news of the campus and the story of their own experiences.

Now, it is of great interest to them and to all Alumni Bulletin readers to learn what has happened to those who have been discharged. Starting with the 1946 Summer issue, brief resumes of Juniata's former servicemen and women were given. The record is continued in this and forthcoming issues until complete.

JUNIATA IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Juniata library at turn of the century. Students were permitted to take out one book a week, a contrast to present-day arm-loads.

Two of the three founders, J. B. Brumbaugh and H. B. Brumbaugh. One provided first class room, and other boarded first teacher.

Women students at Oneida Hall in spring of 1899. Both the dress and activities of Juniata's women have changed much since then.

WHY YOU'LL WANT TO READ THE HISTORY OF JUNIATA

ALUMNI: In the pages of "Juniata College — the History of Seventy Years (1876-1946)" by Dr. Charles C. Ellis, president emeritus, you can relive the good old days. The author writes charmingly of those people and places you once knew so well. Re-live memories of Round Top, Lion's Back and other landmarks of the college "set in the midst of a thousand hills." Also, add to your information about your school.

STUDENTS: Learn the background of Juniata College. How were various traditions established? What was the early attitude toward athletics? What was the curriculum like in the old days? Has the social life changed considerably? These and many other questions which interest you are answered in this complete history of Juniata. Fascinating prose and pictures throw light upon the Juniata of today.

RESIDENTS OF HUNTINGDON COUNTY: Undoubtedly, you have always been eager to learn about Juniata College. Here, finally is your chance to read the story about the relationship between college and community. Since its founding, Juniata College has been a part of the community in which it is located; and the citizens of the town have been loyal supporters of the college.

TEACHERS: Whether or not you teach at Juniata, you'll be interested in Dr. Ellis' account of the development of the curriculum at the school. Juniata has grown from a small normal school to a liberal arts college known for its broad program, and Dr. Ellis traces that growth for you. In addition, he discusses teaching at the college and mentions contributions made by members of the faculty. The names of all faculty members are given up to and including 1946.

LIBRARIANS, HISTORIANS, RESEARCHERS: Here is a helpful reference source for you. This excellent college history will be in demand at many libraries. It will prove invaluable to any one doing work on college or religious history. Dr. Ellis tells you clearly how the Church of the Brethren and the founders of Juniata worked together to overcome prejudice against education and establish the school. He answers many questions about American educational and religious history.

ALL OTHERS: If you have ever attended college, this seventy year history will remind you of many experiences you have had on the campus. If you've never been to college, you'll enjoy the history, for it analyzes the growth of an educational institution and its outside activities.

"Juniata College — the History of Seventy Years (1876 - 1946)" by Charles C. Ellis, president emeritus, starts with the founding of the college. It tells how the founders struggled against prejudice and other obstacles to establish the Brethren's Normal School and Collegiate Institute in 1876.

The first class consisted of three students and one teacher and was held in an improvised class room. A smallpox epidemic and the death of the principal, Prof. Zuck, did not discourage the founders in their efforts, and the school continued to grow. In 1894, the college acquired the name of Juniata after the river around Huntingdon.

Dr. Ellis shows how Juniata soon added other courses in addition to the normal English course and how it was to become a liberal arts college whose influence would be felt the world over.

Intercollegiate athletics had hard going at first, the history shows, but the school soon liberalized its policy along this line.

The history takes into consideration many other phases of college life — administration, alumni activities, work of the trustees, women's groups, the library, publications, and others.

TRADITIONS

A cherished part of college life, traditions strengthen the bond between students, faculty and alumni. At Juniata, they reflect the history of the College. In "Juniata College — the History of Seventy Years," Dr. Charles C. Ellis, president emeritus, provides the background for many traditions observed today.

Mountain Day: This is the day when students and faculty forget lectures and books and hike into the beautiful hills surrounding the campus. Here they eat a lunch provided by the college and spend the rest of the day in recreation, one feature of which is a baseball game between students and faculty. Mountain Day is the result of the smallpox epidemic which hit the school in early years and forced every one to flee to the hills.

Alumni Homecoming: What alumni or alumna isn't eager to get back and once more see familiar faces and hear familiar names? The climax of the day is a contest between the Freshmen and Sophomores to see which class puts its numerals on Lion's Back. A substantial portion of the history of Juniata is devoted to activities of alumni and many names are mentioned.

Fire-Lighting Ceremony:

This ceremony is built around the legend of Alfarata, the Indian maiden. Women student's light a fire in the social room's fireplace for the first time of the year. "Juniata College — the History of Seventy Years" discusses in detail activities of women at the college.

All-Class Night: On this occasion, each class tries to put on the best skit and thus win a cup. Dr. Ellis devotes a great deal of this history to extracurricular activities.

Last summer he made one trip into Indiana from his Elgin home, another to Virginia, and then a third through various parts of Illinois where he claims to have visited "in twenty-one homes of relatives in 13 days." That's a good average, eh?

Makes Headlines

J O. Bergantz, N.E. '02, made headlines last fall — not just because he was married but because he took for his bride the postmistress of Duncansville. And he is Huntingdon's postmaster. That was a feature with a new twist: "Postmaster Weds Postmistress."

The quiet wedding ceremony was held in Hicks Memorial Methodist Church, Duncansville, Pa., on September 30, 1947. The bride was Mrs. Ethel G. Davis.

And believe it or not, the couple attended the annual convention of the National Association of Postmasters in Los Angeles, Calif., on their wedding trip!

brilliant secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions for many years, but also he was an author, preacher, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in 1937 and a past president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Dr. Speer was graduated from Princeton University in 1889 with honors seldom duplicated in the history of the college. He was a student in Princeton Theological Seminary for a year, but chose to take the position of secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions instead of the ministry. He held this position for 46 years, traveling all over the world, visiting mission fields, making recommendations, improving and raising the standards of the whole Christian Missionary movement.

In a report of Dr. Speer's death in the Huntingdon Daily News, it was said: "Few men have lived such a busy life, accomplished so much and received such world-wide recognition for their work on behalf of the Christian church."

Obtain Law Diplomas; Life Begins After 40

"LIFE Begins After 40 for Livengood and Stroup; Get Law Degrees at Dickinson."

That was a headline on a Johnstown Tribune story this past fall and it topped a pretty interesting feature tale about the two men who were in Juniata together "in the 1920s" and then received diplomas from Dickinson College School of Law in September, 1947.

William S. Livengood, Jr. '26, the Commonwealth's secretary of internal affairs, and Stanley G. Stroup '25, were the "students." Out of touch with the college classroom for over 20 years, they decided to enroll in the law course in the fall of 1945. They are now slated to take their bar examinations in March, 1948.

grounds." It went on to explain that Secretary Livengood's college studies have been extensive. In addition to receiving AB and LL.D. degrees from Juniata College, he attended Susquehanna University and the University of Pittsburgh. He has been a teacher and athletic coach.

"Let's go to town with 1908" was the cry of the Bill Swigarts of Huntingdon, shown here "raring to go" with duster and all just before their tour in the 1908 Model T Ford last fall. (See story below)

AND the Swigarts go rattling along!

That almost became the new theme song for Mr. and Mrs. William E. Swigart, Jr., of Huntingdon, last September when they took a 1500-mile tour of the New England states in their 1908 Model T. Ford touring car.

It was no "gag" and no experiment. It was a thrilling vacation, complete with linen dusters, goggles and other early day garments worn in automobile travel. And the trip practically made them celebrities overnight.

After a four-day journey from Huntingdon, which took them through the Holland Tunnel in New York during the 5 o'clock rush, the Swigarts participated in the 500-mile Glidden classic of antiquated cars through six New England states.

The Swigart's trip was packed with thrills — and blowouts, a leaking radiator, generator trouble, in fact almost anything one could imagine. "There was something every minute," according to Bud '37. On the first day they had: three flat tires; a broken bushing on the timing shaft; a leaking, boiling radiator (it used 15 gallons of water between Huntingdon and Hartford); and a broken timing gear.

Oddly enough, the leaking radiator which hexed the motorists all the way, stopped leaking just before they reached the border of Huntingdon county on the return trip. The total of flat tires was 10.

In the Glidden tour of 120 cars, 84 finished the course. The Swigart car was a full day behind the tour until the group made a stop at Intervale, N. H., which permitted the Swigarts to catch up. Although the car was easy on gas, averaging 30 miles to the gallon, it was hard on oil. Bill explained that "we had to stop every 30 miles and add a quart of oil."

The Story of THEN AND NOW in "Juniata College— History of Seventy Years 1876 - 1946"

By Charles C. Ellis
President Emeritus

- FIVE CHAPTERS
- 285 PAGES
- MANY ILLUSTRATIONS
- NAMES OF PEOPLE & PLACES

THEN — a class of two women and one man meeting in the barren upstairs room of a publishing house (above).

Now — a world-famous institution with 670 students and a faculty of 60.

That's the story of Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., as told in "Juniata College — the History of Seventy Years" by Dr. Charles C. Ellis, president emeritus. Just off the press, this handsomely-bound book is now available at $2.50 a copy. You and your relatives and friends will want to read it, for it's a complete history of Juniata, dealing with every activity of the college. It makes an excellent gift for birthdays, graduations, Christmas, or other occasions. It's a book that the recipient will cherish always. Abundantly illustrated, it contains five chapters and 285 pages of text.

Dr. Ellis has written a history that only he could write, for he has long been associated with the college. It was in 1888 that Dr. Ellis first came to Juniata. He was a student when the school was known as the Brethren's Normal College. In 1890 he was graduated in the normal English course, and he was the second person to receive his B.A. degree from Juniata. This was in 1898.

After teaching in public and private schools, he returned to Juniata as professor of education and head of the department. He held those two titles until his election as president in 1930. Under his leadership the college made many advances, receiving the accreditation of the Association of American Universities and the American Chemical Society. In addition, Dr. Ellis strengthened the financial resources and brought to the campus many capable teachers.

In other words, Dr. Ellis writes of a college he knows thoroughly and loves, and his enthusiasm for Juniata is expressed in the history. The author devoted many months of untiring research in order to produce the seventy-year history.

These are just a few of the reasons why the history makes good reading. It is written by a man who has seen the college from the viewpoint of student, teacher and president; it is in itself a good story; and it is the result of careful research.

You'll find "Juniata College — the History of Seventy Years" delightful reading.
